BRITAIN WARNS SHE WILL FIGHT ANY FURTHER GRABS BY HITLER

LONDON, April 3 (AP)—Prime Minister Chamberlain told the House of Commons today that the Anglo-French pledge of aid for Poland would be followed by similar commitments to other countries which stand in the way of any attempt by Germany to dominate Europe.

"I am no more a man of war today than I was in September," Chamberlain declared. "I have no intention and no desire to treat the German people otherwise than I would have our own people treated here."

He said Britain was concerned "to preserve not only the independence of this country but of all states which might be threatened by aggression."

Chamberlain's statement came after these developments:

1—R. A. Butler, undersecretary for foreign affairs, indicated Britain was prepared to make a rearmament loan to Rumania.

2—Foreign Secretary Viscount Halifax told the House of Lords that nothing could be further from the truth than German charges that Britain and France were trying to encircle the Reich.

3—Col. Joseph Beck, Polish foreign minister, arrived in London for vital consultations.

4—Chamberlain rejected a request for compulsory registration of British manpower—a step toward conscription which he said would interfere with the drive for recruits for an enlarged territorial army.

GERMANY MUST BE GOOD

Chamberlain declared:

"Public opinion throughout the world has been profoundly shocked and alarmed . . . This country is united from end to end in the conviction that we must make our position clear and unmistakable whatever the result.

"There is not any threat to Germany so long as Germany will be a good neighbor."

Joseph P. Kennedy, United States ambassador, sat in the distinguished visitors' gallery during the Commons session.

Chamberlain said:

"We welcome the cooperation of any country whatever its internal system of government, not

All These Seek Handful of Jobs

SEEK NAVY YARD JOBS—The biting wind of cold morning means nothing to these job seekers as they wait in line to file their application for one of 25 labor jobs at the Charlestown Navy Yard. Yard officials predicted applicants would number thousands by night.

Boston Evening American Photo

6000 Seek 25 Laborers' Jobs At Charlestown Navy Yard

Six thousand shivering men stood in line at the Charlestown navy yard today to apply for a handful—25—of $22-a-week laborer's jobs that "may" become available "in the future."

A bitter wind swept down Chelsea street, cutting through the clothes of the men who had begun to stand in line at 4:30 a. m. One man appeared at the gate at midnight, left, and returned later.

Occasion was the re-establishing of the "common laborer" civil service list that had lapsed.

Edward J. Breen, recorder of the board at the yard, said the jobs were open to all between the ages of 18 and 55, who had been through four grades at school, and who could pass a physical examination.

Ten yard police, under Captain John W. Fyfe, 12 marines and 20 police officers kept order over the well-behaved crowd.

When the navy yard offices opened at 8 a. m., the line reached clear to Chelsea street, several hundred feet away, and 300 applications were given out in the first hour.

Some men carried thermos bottles and sandwiches.

SMOKE ROUTS 1863 AT WEYMOUTH HIGH

Three minutes after a fire drill message had been called over a loud speaker system, 1800 students and 63 teachers had fled to safety from Weymouth High School, today.

The school building filled with smoke following a short circuit in a motor in the school laboratory.

When the smoke entered the office of Principal Parker T. Pearson he called for a fire drill through the loudspeaking system which has replaced the old bell signal for a fire drill. Firemen were called, but were not needed.

Kennedy's Son Quits Madrid for London

MADRID, April 3 (AP)—Joseph Patrick Kennedy, Jr., son of the United States ambassador to London, left Madrid for London today after a visit of nearly two months.

HITLER SET TO VOID NAVY PACT

Copyright, 1939.

PARIS, April 3 (INS)—Germany is preparing to announce on Wednesday or Thursday the rupture of the Anglo-German naval treaty, according to usually reliable diplomatic circles in Paris today.

Breaking of the pact whereby the Reich's naval strength is fixed at 35 per cent that of Great Britain would be "a first measure of protest against the threat of encirclement," the diplomatic quarters asserted.

(Background Note: Hitler, in his speech at Wilhelmshaven Saturday, warned that Germany would ot tolerate any policy by Britain and her allies intended to "intimidate" the Reich or to revive the pre-world war "encirclement" of Germany.

Polish circles in Paris affirmed today that Foreign Minister Josef Beck, now beginning vitally important talks with Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain in London, would proclaim Poland's willingness to aid Britain in the event of war, and would make this pronouncement even before the Anglo-Polish negotiation get fully under way.

France, it was understood here, will not join in the Anglo-Polish alliance which is expected to grow out of the Chamberlain-Beck talks on the British pledge of military assistance to Warsaw.

A HERO'S STORY—Mel "Sudden Death" Hill reads all about it in the Boston Record . . . all about his winning goal in third sudden death period at the Boston Garden last night. Boston Evening American Photo.

Hill Hikes All Night After Bruins' Victory

By JOSEPH FRANKLAND

A still marvelling, hockey-crazed city would have looked most any place this morning for its newest sports idol, 23-year-old "Sudden Death" Mel Hill, except walking the beat with a Brookline policeman.

But that's just where he was—"cooling out" from excitement and strain of his third sudden death goal, a whistling shot which sent his battling Bruins into the Stanley Cup round for the hockey championship of the world.

Nervous as the thoroughbred he is, the blonde, blue-eyed Saskatoon Kid walked from 2 until 6 a. m. at the side of Patrolman James Travers.

In that unusual setting he told the Boston Evening American his own story of the shot heard 'round the hockey world.

"I guess it's just the excitement," the Bruins' rookie right-winger declared."

"Now it's daylight, I'll turn in and sleep," he smiled.

"I'm going to need plenty of it before we bring that Stanley Cup to Boston."

Don't miss the details and color of the great Bruins' victory over the New York Rangers, brilliantly told by Bill Grimes and Austen Lake, in sports pages. Action pictures on Page 34 and back page of this edition.

And bring it to Boston, he and the rest of his mates will, if Patrolman Travers, 13 years a policeman and quite a hockey fan in his own right, can do it by rooting.

Hill, the little Canadian ace is as modest as he is talented.

How did he beat those New York Rangers?

The credit he gives to Bill Cowley, the lad who steamed a pass for the goal that made some 17,000 hockey fans temporarily insane.

Almost bashfully, he explained

COURT REFUSES TO JAIL TROOPER DURING HIS TRIAL

Neither the defendant nor the jurors will be locked up during the trial of George T. Knox, former state trooper charged with murder of Mrs. Helen Darragh Dale, 28-year-old divorcee.

This was the ruling today of Judge Lewis H. Goldberg who is presiding at the trial in superior court.

George T. Knox

The jury was selected in less than an hour after the proceedings opened—the first criminal case to be tried in the new $5,000,000 Suffolk County courthouse.

Following are the jurors:

Martin Kerrigan (jury foreman) of Newman street, South Boston, an engineer; Edward P. Keefe, Regent street, Roxbury, painter; James T. Tolland, River street, Hyde Park, superintendent; George A. Waugh, Trevalley road, Revere, garage man.

Guy M. Archibald, Montclair avenue, West Roxbury, gardener; John J. Ireland, Folsom street, Jamaica Plain, clerk; Charles W. Davis, Faxon street, Roxbury, machinist; Israel Kresiman, Shawmut street, Chelsea, wool clipper.

Robert Siggins, Kensington street, Roxbury, buyer; Anthony J. McDonough, Wrentham street, Dorchester, clerk; Tomasa Buonopane, Proctor avenue, Revere, labor, and Charles F. Smith, Dent street, West Roxbury, laborer.

WON'T LOCK UP JURORS

After the jurors had been sworn in, Judge Goldberg told them he had decided not to have them locked up during the trial, one of the few instances where a murder jury has been allowed its liberty here.

He cautioned them, however, not to read newspaper accounts of the trial and not to discuss the case with anyone—even each other and even their own families.

This afternoon they were taken for a view of the alleged murder scene—an apartment occupied by Knox in the 500-block of Commonwealth avenue, the Kenmore district.

In allowing Knox to continue his freedom during the trial Judge Goldberg denied a motion by Assistant District Attorney Edward F. Sullivan that the former state trooper be turned over to custody of the sheriff.

Knox has been free on his own recognizance under the statute which provides that a defendant under indictment shall be given his liberty on that status if not tried within six months of the indictment return.

Judge Goldberg refused Sullivan's motion to place Knox in custody of the sheriff during the trial after the judge had conferred with Superior Judge Frederick W. Fosdick, who originally released the former state trooper.

80 JURORS ON PANEL

A panel of 80 jurors had been summoned for the trial.

Selection of the jury began just before the noon hour, with Sullivan challenging for the state and Attorney Joseph J. McGrail of Worcester for the defense.

Mrs. Dale, daughter of a Charlestown fire captain, was found shot to death in Knox's Commonwealth ave. apartment on May 22, 1937. The death weapon was said to have been a state police revolver.

In Roxbury district court Knox was freed of complicity in the divorcee's death, which police declared a suicide, but subsequently Judge Charles L. Carr after a municipal court inquest, turned the matter over to a grand jury, which indicted the former trooper last May.

Blind, Drug Woman In Daylight Holdup On So. End Street

Holding a handkerchief, saturated with some blinding and choking chemical, over her face, a man and woman overpowered and robbed a South End mother, as she walked along Chandler street in broad daylight today, she told police.

While she was overcome by the drug, her assailants fled, taking her handbag containing $17, the victim said.

She is Mrs. Mary C. Smith, 39, of Gray street, South End. Her husband, Leslie, is an auto mechanic. They have four children.

BLINDED AND CHOKED

Near collapse, Mrs. Smith ran into the Warren avenue police station, still clutching the strap of her missing handbag.

"I was on my way to pay my rent," she said. "A stocky, dark complexioned woman, wearing a dark blue bandana over her hair, stepped up beside me.

"There was a man with her. I saw him pull a handkerchief from his pocket. Next thing I knew, he pressed the handkerchief against my face.

"It was soaked with something that blinded me and kept me from getting my breath.

ESCAPE WITH MONEY

"It might have been chloroform or it might have been ammonia, I couldn't say.

"When I got my senses back, the man and woman were gone. My handbag was torn away from me, all except the strap.

"The woman I saw was about 45, wearing a reddish coat. She looked like a foreigner.

"The man was the same age. He wore a leather coat and a cap."

In the presence of members of his family and high court officials Judge Allan G. Buttrick of Clinton was inducted today as a superior court justice. He succeeds the late Judge Marcus Morton.

Clerk William M. Prendible read the commission and Chief Justice John P. Higgins administered the oath. Sheriff John F. Dowd escorted the two justices to the bench.

'LURE GIRL' IS BACK IN COURT

MARIE OLIVER

Marie Oliver, alias Silver, 20, of South Peabody, given probation two weeks ago after conviction as a girl "lure" for five thieves, was brought back into superior court today by Probation Officer Mary Powers.

The probation officer, before Judge Frederick W. Fosdick, charged the girl with violation of her probation conditions.

While awaiting action by the court, the girl herself told reporters that she was picked up because she had befriended a girl she later discovered to have run away from home, and because she had hired a room in Bulfinch street, West End.

One of her probation conditions was that she stay out of Boston and remain in Peabody.

Her Strip Jitterbug Is 'Dance of Death'

NEW YORK, April 3 (AP)—A strip-tease "jitterbug" dance which attractive Mary Riley, 32-year-old brunette, performed in a Riverside drive apartment last night may have caused the brain hemorrhage from which she died a few hours later, a medical examiner said today.

After an autopsy, Dr. Philip Goldstein, assistant medical examiner, said her death was from natural causes due to a hemorrhage at the base of the brain. He said it may have been induced by excitement.

Hugh Hillard, 32, lessee of the apartment, and Buddy Kelly, 20, of Atlanta, Ga., his brother-in-law, were questioned for several hours by detectives and members of the district attorney's staff before the medical examiner made his report.

Both told police the woman was doing a dance in the apartment when she suddenly fell and struck her head against furniture. The men took her to a hospital, where she died. Dr. Goldstein said the hemorrhage apparently occurred before she fell.

The woman was clothed only in stockings and a bathrobe when she arrived at the hospital. Detective James Weldon said the dance climaxed a drinking party.

Jewish Passover Begins at Sundown

Boston Jews will join world Jewry at sundown today to observe the feast of Passover which commemorates the exodus of Israelites from their Egyptian bondage and the establishment of the Jewish nation 3500 years ago.

During Passover, which will be observed until a week from Tuesday, Jews will eat matzoth, unleavened bread, to recall the hardships of Jews of Moses' time.

Senators Block Relief Boost

WASHINGTON, April 3 (AP)—A Senate appropriations subcommittee refused today to increase the $100,000,000 relief appropriation to $150,000,000—the figure recommended by President Roosevelt.

The vote in the session reportedly was eight to two, with Senator McKellar (D) of Tennessee, and Overton (D) of Louisiana, supporting the higher figure.

After voting down the increase, the subcommittee deferred further action on the appropriation until tomorrow. Then, members said, proposals to reduce the House-approved $100,000,000 appropriation will be considered.

One member said that every sum from nothing to $100,000,000 was being discussed.

Newton Mayor's Move Puzzles

With several investigations under way, including one of the police department by Mayor Edwin O. Childs, considerable speculation was caused today when, at the mayor's request, Patrolman Charles Jenkins of the Newton police was assigned in plain clothes to the mayor's office. GUNMAN, SAVED FROM CHAIR BY HERO-PRIEST, FACES LIFE

NEW YORK, April 3 (INS)—Hoodlum Johnny Naumo, 23, who began compiling a police record at the age of 18, faced a sentence tantamount to life imprisonment today but he could thank the courage of a soft-spoken Irish parish priest that it was not the electric chair with which he was threatened.

While a squad of 90 police armed with revolvers, rifles and sub-machine guns awaited an order to close in on the apartment where Naumo had taken refuge the priest, Rev. Francis X. Quinn, pleaded, cajoled and finally persuaded Naumo to surrender, releasing an elderly couple he was using as his shield against police bullets.

"Give yourself up; you'll get the fires of hell if you do any harm to these poor old folk," Fr. Quinn pleaded as he calmly faced the desperate Naumo after climbing in from the fire escape window.

"I know, Father, but they'll give me 60 years for this," eplied Naumo, his gun leveled at Martin A. Nicholas, 63, behind whom he cowered.

Naumo was referring to the $300 holdup of a Greek coffee house early Palm Sunday morning.

"Don't be a fool, Johnny," Edward Gunther pleaded. "It's only a meat-ball rap."

In criminal parlance this means a short sentence.

Nicholas was on the verge of collapse and in the adjoining bedroom his 61-year-old wife lay in a state of nervous prostration.

Gunther, alleged accomplice of Naumo in the hodup, had been captured soon after it occurred.

Father Quinn pointed out it was Palm Sunday. He spoke to Naumo of his mother, of life in the hereafter, and of his religion. Finally, he told him plainly not to be a "sap."

Convinced, Naumo turned over his gun to the priest and meekly surrendered.

CLIMAX TO GUN DRAMA—After holding up New York restaurant with two accomplices, John Naumo fled amid a barrage of police shots to this neighborhood apartment, where he held as hostage an aged couple. It was not until Rev. Francis X. Quinn, New York priest, entered apartment and pleaded with Naumo that he walked out to waiting police.

Montgomery Attracts Girl At Film Quiz

WASHINGTON, April 3 (AP)—Robert Montgomery, the movie actor, told a Senate group today that a proposal to eliminate block booking would cut in half production schedules of the motion picture industry.

The dark-haired actor, whose presence drew a number of girl admirers to the hearing room of an interstate commerce subcommittee, appeared as a member of the board of directors of the Screen Actors Guild. Capitol stenographers and secretaries besieged him for autographs.

At one point of Montgomery's discussion of motion picture work Chairman Smith (D.) South Carolina, asked him if he had met Mae West. Montgomery replied:

"Unfortunately I haven't had the pleasure."

"Goodness gracious!" said Smith.

Senator Neely (D.) West Virginia joined in the by-play with the observation that Montgomery had been working "With 2000 or 300 other attractive ladies in the Hollywood studios."

Federal Income Tax Collections Drop

WASHINGTON, April 3 (INS)—March income tax collections totaled $505,772,709, compared with $722,002,013 collected the same month last year, the Treasury reported today.

Total government receipts for the fiscal year thus far were brought to $4,390,000,000 in March or about $410,000,000 less than was collected the same time last year.

GUN CLUE FOUND IN AIR TRAGEDY

MEMPHIS, Tenn., April 3 (INS)—First tangible evidence in support of the theory that a mad man with a gun wrecked American Airlines' flagship, the Southerner, near Goodwin, Ark., January 14, 1936, with the loss of 17 lives, was in the hands of officials today.

A tenant farmer, Australia McKinney, 38, found a rusty Luger automatic pistol on the farm of R. L. Hunt, about three miles from the scene of the crash and on direct line of the flight taken by the doomed plane.

It was from the approximate spot where the gun was found that the plane began its long glide, under full power, to crash in the nearby swamps.

Testimony of farmers who saw the huge ship crash led to a later bureau of air commerce report that the plane was functioning perfectly and that "human elements" probably were the cause of the crash.

A mark in the fuselage, which looked like a bullet hole, led to the belief a passenger had gone berserk and shot both pilots, Jerry Marshall and John Freeland.

Several vials of narcotics found among wreckage of the plane added to the murder theory.

FIVE HELD IN REVERE CLUB RAID

Out of Mayor Lawrence J. Gillis' drive to slow down Revere night life five persons were arraigned today in Chelsea court as the result of an early morning Sunday raid on "The Open Door," a Broadway cafe.

The cases of all five, including a woman and Joseph Del Grosso, 35, former Revere city councillor, were continued for a week. Each defendent was held in $200 bail.

At the same time, Mayor Gillis sounded a warning that certain Revere cafes must do an about face and respect the legal closing hour for liquor sales.

Arrested with Joseph Del Grosso on charges of liquor law violations were his brother, Dario, 27, listed as proprietor of "The Open Door"; Philip Marconi, 28, of Fuller st., Medford; John Manion, 55, of Warren st., Patsy Barraco, 27, of Revere st., and Miss Frances Engle, 20, of Revere st., all Revere.

Police said the guests were drinking at tables in defiance of the early closing law, and seized a quantity of liquor.

Joseph Del Grosso was charged in two counts with illegal sale of liquor, and his brother, Dario, with keeping and exposing. The others, said to be employes, were charged with illegal sale.

Illness Fells 4 N. E. Senators

WASHINGTON, April 3 (AP)—Illness prevented four New England senators today from attending to official duties.

Senator Hale, (R.) Maine, who underwent a minor operation last month, returned to Emergency hospital over the weekend but aides said they expected he would be discharged in a few days.

Senator Gibson, (R.) Vermont, was on a West Indies cruise recuperating from a cold and Senator Tobey, (R.) New Hampshire, was reported suffering from grippe at his Temple, N. H., home.

300,000 MINERS STRIKE

NEW YORK, April 3 (AP)—Seventy per cent of the nation's soft coal industry shut down today as more than 300,000 miners in the Appalachian area remained away from work pending completion of negotiations for a new contract.

Week-end attempts by a subcommittee of miners and operators to reach a new agreement to replace the old two-year contract that expired at midnight Friday were futile despite an urgent appeal by Secretary of Labor Perkins.

The work stoppage followed automatically under the traditional rule of the United Mine Workers—"No contract, no work."

The 3000-odd locals of the union were instructed to pull out all of the 338,000 miners affected except for skeleton crews totaling 20,000 men. The daily payroll loss was estimated by Secretary Perkins at $1,500,000.

Congress Probers' Report Clears TVA

WASHINGTON, April 3 (AP)—The Tennessee Valley Authority won a clean bill of health today from a majority of the special congressional committee which conducted a year's inquiry into the $500,000,000 New Deal agency.

The bulky majority report, filed today, declared that charges of dishonesty brought by former TVA Chairman Arthur E. Morgan against the other two directors "are without foundation, not supported by the evidence, and made without due consideration of the available facts."

It was Morgan's removal by President Roosevelt that precipitated the congressional investigation. The committee majority offered both praise and criticism of the ousted chairman.

A minority report signed by Senator Davis (R.) of Pennsylvania and Representatives Jenkins (R.) of Ohio and Wolverton (R.) of New Jersey recommended a complete reorganization of the TVA.

It accused the power agency of "waste and inefficiency" and said its policies had been "arbitrary, dictatorial and unbusinesslike."

HINTS "WHITEWASH"

The minority recommended transfer of all flood control and power generation activities from the TVA to the army engineers. It also urged that the TVA board be increased from three to five members, and that the board operate under the regulation of state utility commissions.

In a separate individual minority report, Jenkins contended that the majority report was "silent but unmistakable proof of a desire to withhold true facts rather than bring them to light."

"It leaves the Tennessee Valley Authority just as it found it," Jenkins added. "It finds only a few minor irregularities and timidly suggests a few minor changes."

Dr. Morgan, the report said, "was largely responsible for the excellent engineering work done by the authority, for its enlightened labor policy, and for certain other progressive aspects of its work."

"FAIR YARDSTICK"

At the same time his differences with the other directors, David E. Lilienthal and Dr. Harcourt A. Morgan, were declared to have "led to serious internal stresses in the organization that hampered its effectiveness."

The majority report criticized former TVA budgeting and accounting methods, but praised the agency's far-flung activities.

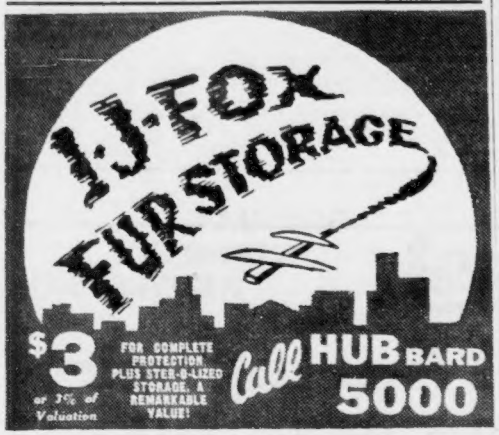
President Watches Foreign Situation

WARM SPRINGS, Ga., April 3 (AP)—President Roosevelt settled down to vacation routine on the fourth day of his stay here today, but continued his study of the international situation and important legislation awaiting executive action.

Among measures passed by Congress on which he was awaiting routine reports from interested government agencies before giving them expected approval were the $358,000,000 authorization for strengthening the army and the government reorganization bill.



FAME—Annamary Dickey, Decatur, Ill., soprano who won $1000 and a Metropolitan Opera season contract in New York audition finals. Mack Harrell, Greenville, Tex., baritone, got similar award.

Hubby Sailed Away After 1-Day Bridal

SALEM, April 3—A sailor's sweetheart, she married him one day, she said. They had a one-day honeymoon. And then he sailed away.

Such was the marital misadventure related by Mrs. Edna May Stettler, 23, of Gloucester, who appeared before Judge John V. Phelan today, seeking freedom from Ivan C. Stettler, who, so far is she knows, is somewhere sailing the seven seas.

They met, she said, in the summer of 1934, and were married October 28, of that year in Lynn; spent their one-day honeymoon at her sister's home, and parted. For six months, she said, she received $16 a month from the government, then that stopped. He came, she believes, from Wisconsin. Judge Phelan reserved decision.

GIRL NAMED

The "Girl in the White Pajamas" was featured in testimony on the divorce plea of Mrs. Lillian Madigan, of Haverhill, against William J., arrested with the before-mentioned damsel in a raid on a Lynn apartment March 26, 1937.

Policemen who made the raid testified that the door was opened by a young lady, clad as specified, and that she and Madigan were taken to a police station and charged with misbehaving.

The girl was identified as Miss Florence E. Champi, who, after the raid, was quoted as telling Mrs. Madigan that she wouldn't give Madigan up for anything—no matter what happened.

DOUBLY BAD DAY

It was a doubly bad day for Philip Dennis Devine, of Salem, sued by Mrs. Gertrude Sabin Devine, of Beverly, on charges of intoxication.

Probation Officer Samuel A. Campbell was her principal witness, testifying that he had—that very minute, in fact—come from the court of Judge George B. Sears, and that there Devine was given seven days for drunkenness. His record showed innumerable arrests for the same reason, it was testified.

They were married July 11, 1934, and have three children, Desmond, 4; David, 2, and Paul, 6 months.

Safe Crackers' Unlucky Night; Net Loss $764

One safe-cracking was operated at a deficit today and in another—perhaps a jobof the same mob—$750 was overlooked in the excitement.

Police figured the [illegible] job No. 1 as follows: Rope for the lowering of three men through the skylight of the Kennedy Creamery, 120 Harvard avenue, Allston, $1. Work of removing a skylight, union scale, $10. Labor for the three men, three hours at 50 cents an hour, $4.50. Total cost: $15.50. Net loot, 20 cents. Total deficit, $14.50.

In job No. 2 the robbers went through the same gestures—skylight, rope, safe opening—at the plant of the Bottera Furniture Co., Bennington street, East Boston. The safe was opened all right—how is a mystery—but the $750, in an envelope, was undisturbed.

Such is life.

Hitler to Fight Move To Encircle Germany

By PIERRE J. HUSS
International News Service Staff Correspondent

BERLIN, April 3 Europe today faced a quiet Eastertide unless Poland and Rumania openly sign an 'encirclement' pact with Great Britain.

Chancellor Hitler's schedule for the next couple of weeks indicates he contemplates no surprise moves in the immediate future. Whether he stays in comparative retirement or not, depends on the attitude of Poland and Rumania.

Hitler arranged a vacation at his mountain home at Berchtesgaden commencing Thursday. He is expected to remain there until shortly before his 50th birthday, April 20.

Then he will return to Berlin to celebrate in a show of solidarity with Premier Mussolini of Italy and Generalissimo Franco of Spain.

Hitler, revealed on board the steamer Robert Ley of the Nazi Strength Through Joy organization, yesterday visited Heligoland.

Hitler's Order Cut Broadcast Of Talk to U. S.

LONDON, April 3 (INS) Chancellor Hitler's personal orders cut off the broadcast of his speech at Wilhelmshaven Saturday, Ward Price, a personal acquaintance of Hitler, reported in the Daily Mail today.

Price said instructions for cancellation of the broadcast came so late that the first three sentences of Hitler's speech had been transmitted before connections were cut.

It was not until Hitler saw the array of microphones on the platform before him and inquired with what circuits he was connected that he forbade the broadcast, said Price.

RETURN OF ENVOYS IN DOUBT

Paris, April 3 (AP) Circles close to the government said today an early consultation between Britain and France was under consideration for the return of the British and French ambassadors to Berlin.

LONDON, April 3 (AP) — Informed Britons said today they believed Britain would not return her ambassador to Berlin until negotiations had been concluded for what was called a united action against "further aggression" in Europe.

Sir Nevile Henderson was called home from his post in Berlin on March 17 to report following German occupation of Bohemia and Moravia.

It was said at the foreign office [illegible] talks had been held thus far with France on returning the British and French envoys to Berlin.

Metropolitan reports to its policyholders—

HIGHLIGHTS OF 1938

The Metropolitan Life Insurance Company is a mutual company. It is operated solely for the benefit of its 29 million policyholders, whose life insurance with this Company totaled over $22,612,000,000 at the end of the past year.

In 1938, more than $566,300,000 was paid to policyholders and beneficiaries, and $176,000,000 was added to statutory reserves for payment of obligations which will accrue in future years under present policies. Dividends paid in 1938 amounted to $103,940,000. A still larger sum—$118,042,000—has been set aside for dividend payments in 1939.

Metropolitan has paid, since 1927, more than $5,000,000,000 to policyholders and beneficiaries.

More than $1,800,000,000 of life insurance protection was provided by the 3,330,151 new policies issued during the past year.

Assets held for the benefit of policyholders and beneficiaries—which include more than 100,000 carefully selected, diversified investments—amount to more than $4,900,000,000.

As part of its welfare program in 1938, Metropolitan distributed 68 million health booklets—an average of 1 every half-second—and published monthly health-education advertisements in magazines whose combined circulation for the year was over 300 million copies.

Metropolitan welcomes every opportunity to provide its policyholders with information that will enable them to have a clearer understanding of how the Company operates. To help accomplish this, the Company is publishing a series of educational advertisements in magazines, and seeks in various other ways to keep its policyholders informed. A booklet, soon to be available, contains a detailed account of Metropolitan's progress in 1938. We shall be glad to send you a copy on request.

Metropolitan's Business Report for the year ending December 31, 1938. (In accordance with the Annual Statement filed with the New York State Insurance Department.)

The Life of Christ

CHAPTER THIRTY-FOUR

"Peter went out and wept bitterly."—St. Luke XXII, 62.

BY COLLIN CLINE

AFTER [illegible] upon Jesus to the high priest's house, Peter followed afar off, for he was anxious to know what [illegible] the Master.

[illegible] sat down amongst the [illegible] that he was one of [illegible]. And the [illegible] said:

"This man was also with Him."

[illegible]

"I know Him not."

[illegible]

"Thou art also of them."

[illegible] Peter, saying, "Man, I am not of them."

[illegible] Harrah's shows, Jesus was standing [illegible]. His hands were bound. Soldiers struck Him. Others [illegible] at Him. Yet He could [illegible].

[illegible] Peter, looked at him earnestly and [illegible]:

"Certainly, this fellow was also with Him, for he is a Galilean."

Then in the [illegible] he could command, Peter denied:

"Man, I know not what thou sayest."

And [illegible]

Jesus turned and looked [illegible] Peter. There was sorrow in His eyes. And Peter [illegible] had been plunged into his heart remembered the Master's words at the Last Supper:

"Before the cock crows, thou shalt deny Me Thrice!"

Peter, the [illegible] from the hall and wept bitterly. He had [illegible]. But it faltered [illegible].

TOMORROW the story of Christ's early life continues, with a beautiful reproduction of Heinrich Hoffman's forceful painting, "Jesus Before Pilate."

A GOOD SUGGESTION [illegible] by Former Mayor John F. Fitzgerald member of the Boston Port Authority.

Deploring the general lack of interest in maritime affairs, Mr. Fitzgerald asks [illegible] students to visit the waterfront and [illegible] the ocean-going vessels which contribute vastly to New England prosperity.

He also recommends [illegible] delegations from various Boston schools to the parade [illegible] will mark the municipal observance of National Maritime Day on May 22.

We agree with our friend, Mr. Fitzgerald, and we see [illegible] in his proposal. Because our people once were interested in maritime affairs New England became one of [illegible] and richest sections.

There [illegible] should be a revival of interest would result [illegible] of the wealth and employment opportunities [illegible] through apathy and neglect.

WELCOME PRAISE comes to Boston. The United States Chamber of Commerce, concluding its annual national observance [illegible] contest to curb fire waste, awards us [illegible] the metropolitan [illegible] and only Detroit's.

This [illegible] tells. It speaks eloquently for the efficiency of [illegible]. It arises convincingly for continuation of [illegible] the fire hazards.

However, we should not be content to rest on our laurels. The grand safety award [illegible] our grasp. Let's win it this year.

Human Side of News -1- by EDWIN C. HILL

IN 1901 the windows of the New York Hospital were sealed tight at the beginning of winter. Fresh air was regarded as dangerous to be excluded whenever possible.

Mattresses was the chief item of [illegible] and patients sometimes cooked their own meals in [illegible] stoves in the wards. Cured persons were used for [illegible] treatment. Doctor Lee, [illegible] set of [illegible] patients while [illegible] They put [illegible] to Lose.

THESE FACTS are gathered from a fascinating book, "A Near Doctor," published by the Society of the New York Hospital which in a history of the first years of that institution epitomizes a bold and sweeping advance in human welfare in medicine and gives new assurance of ultimate triumph in the epic struggle of Man Against Death" at least untimely death.

Science Makes Strides

This tall, white Magnet [illegible] against pain and death is one of the greatest hospitals in all the world, obviously not an exhibit in our playtime year of the "City of Tomorrow," but, in its vast organization of medical skills and techniques, it projects us far into a happier and safer tomorrow—as pioneer, leader and mentor, makes [illegible] strides with each new [illegible] the amazing [illegible].

IT COSTS [illegible] approximately $3,-[illegible] a year to maintain [illegible] patient hospital. Of this sum, patient fees supply only $2,624,000. The remainder, $1,[illegible]000, is met by [illegible] from endowments and by [illegible] contributions.

In one year when 19,022 [illegible] patients were [illegible] for in the hospital [illegible] [illegible] 17,200 paid less than cost and 1151 were wholly free. The free and less-than-cost care given to patients amounts to approximately $700,-000 a year.

Each year the hospital widens and improves facilities for caring for patients of low income, widely extending its social usefulness.

Chicago's Election -2- by HUGH S. JOHNSON

WASHINGTON, April 3. There will be a [illegible] in Chicago tomorrow. The present Mayor, Edward J. Kelly, is running [illegible] [illegible] Democrat [illegible] be a test of a [illegible] Democratic control.

In [illegible] Mr. Kelly was [illegible] [illegible] party but made [illegible] member of [illegible] Democratic [illegible] Washington to be sure that when the [illegible] is paid around Chicago gets her fair share. In the New Deal's [illegible] support in the country as [illegible] was.

Political Parade -3- by GEORGE ROTHWELL BROWN

WASHINGTON, April 3. The New Deal [illegible] No. 1 Problem. Moreover the New Deal is going to destroy the South. If Dixie hasn't walked her [illegible] maybe it's [illegible] and all this in [illegible] of a frightful irony for the [illegible] and the leadership of [illegible] Congress have made possible the New Deal and [illegible] the South.

Mr. Roosevelt, in consequence of the [illegible] New Deal economic [illegible] has on his hands some 11,000,000 [illegible] cotton. It is not the [illegible] [illegible] bag of fluff which [illegible] the New Deal's No. 1 Problem.

BACK IN '37 the Surplus Commodities Corporation sent a few millions of white Oregon and Washington wheat abroad on export loans.

The policy was to be merely temporary but New Deal crackpots never have realized that one step leads to another, that when you take cotton land out of production everybody rushes into growing more potatoes.

So presently the New Deal tried a similar stunt with nuts, not the Brain Trust variety, pecans. Then came the pegging of wheat prices which stopped our export of wheat dead in its tracks.

SECRETARY HULL
Finally, He Yielded

Mr. Wallace, who never [illegible] known what the farm problem really is all about, but has blundered from one costly fallacy to another, agreed to give a wheat bounty to exporters.

Poor Mr. Hull bucked the policy, but yielded on the promise that it would be but temporary.

Now the whole New Deal cotton program has collapsed and there is more than a mere threat of ruin in this.

In 1932 American cotton exports amounted to 9,059,744 bales. They dropped to 8,532,423 in 1933, when the New Deal started plowing under and pegging the price.

SO WHAT? So in 1938 cotton exports had dropped to 4,561,662 bales. And now?

Virtually the whole export market of the South's main crop, on which millions depend for their very life, has been lost and an 11,-000,000 bale surplus has been piled up. The New Deal has lost for the South, in five years, a foreign market for 20,000,000 bales of cotton.

THE PRESIDENT now announces a policy of export subsidies for cotton.

Disguise this as it may try to disguise it, the fact remains that the New Deal is now doing precisely the thing for doing which Free Trader Hull's State Department put Germany on the blacklist.

SHOPPING WITH

Dearest Anne,

It certainly looks like "Children's Week!" But all the things I saw for children looked so perfectly adorable I had to tell you about them! It's so much fun to dress up children for Easter. There's a special excitement in Easter clothes where children are concerned! Remember next Sunday is Easter so you'd better get busy shopping now. Just I want to tell you about—

She'll Adore Them! Gloves With Bag to Match—Both for $1.95

If she's a fashion conscious young Miss and show me one little girl between the ages of four and twelve who isn't—she'll go completely wild about this new string glove and bag set. Both the gloves and bag are in very fine quality rayon and both have darling, pearl-ing embroidery that she will dote on! There's a special excitement about wearing your very own gloves and a smart little bag! Especially when they match! They will be heavy on Easter parade! Mother will like it, too, because it's an excellent buy. Bag and gloves come in navy, with white stitching; black with white. You may buy either separately. Gloves, $1—Bag, $1. Complete set, bag and gloves, $1.95. See them in Filene's glove shop, second floor. Mail orders or phone Hubbard 4250 till 5 P. M.

Isn't This the Smartest Coat For Only $11.95?

It's another "find" from the Victoria Specialty Shop that I told you about last week. It comes in navy and black in sizes from 12 to 20 and its softly flaring skirt makes your belted waist line look OH so tiny! Other flare and box coats at this price and higher to sizes 42. You'll marvel at the plaid jackets at $5 and at the wool tweed skirts at $4.50. It's possible because they're manufactured as well as sold by the VICTORIA SPECIALTY SHOP, 59 Temple Place, Rm. 807. Mail orders filled.

HOW MAURICE EVANS BECOMES FALSTAFF FOR 'HENRY IV'

Maurice Evans' Falstaffian nose requires three-quarters of an hour to build. "Henry IV" will be given two performances at the Shubert during Evans' two-week engagement.

The wig is an elaborate mixture of silk, collodion, gray hair and air holes. The beard is stuck on with spirit gum and has three pieces of cotton under it.

The huge "hay-window" is a steel and muslin frame, adopted after the actor had tried inflated inner tubes and found them causing heavy perspiration.

Now Mr. Evans is Falstaff in "Henry IV." Each boot is really two boots in one, the pair containing 62 feet of leather. To ensure their shape, steel ribs hold the sides up.

Evans, Skinner Premieres Next Week

By PEGGY DOYLE

This week's pre-Easter lull will be succeeded next Monday by one of the choicest openings nights of Boston's theatrical season when Maurice Evans, who has been called the finest actor of our day, brings us his uncut "Hamlet" and Cornelia Otis Skinner, [illegible] comedy, "Candida."

In the 147 years since Boston playgoers first saw Shakespeare's masterpiece, as many as 1000 lines were cut out of most acting versions mainly because the curtain fell on the play in all its length for four hours and because the audience regarded the story of 'Hamlet' as a substitute to the opportunities offered to the actor of the name role.

For the first time in Boston the world's great[illegible] play will be presented [illegible] as Maurice Evans and his [illegible] company of Shakespearean actors next Monday evening at the Shubert. The curtain will rise promptly at 7 o'clock, the performance concluding at 11:15.

Another exciting milestone in local theatre going history will be the Evans production of "Henry IV," which will have its premiere here Wednesday night at 8:30. It will be repeated on Saturday at the same time.

* * *

Miss Skinner's "Candida," another [illegible] play, was hailed as a [illegible] and [illegible] classic that "enchantingly turned back the hands of time" by Hearst critic Ashton Stevens when it had its American premiere in Chicago a short time ago.

Onslow Stevens, stage and screen star, and John Cromwell recently starred on Broadway in "Bright Rebel," a play about Lord Byron, have the chief male roles opposite Miss Skinner.

NEXT BILL AT SQUARE

The Tuesday-through-Thursday Square Hall bill will include "Mother Carey's Chickens" with Ralph Bellamy and Phyllis Isley [illegible] Prison Nurse.

A Fair Exchange

Camilla

by Anne Stretton, who wrote 'PROPOSAL'

She said, "I was in love with Simon Wintre when I was 18. He had just come to Dore."

CHAPTER ONE

"GET out of ere—out of my kitchen!"

The children made a rapid movement. Mrs. Fawn plunged forward but too late. Two out of a dozen cakes on the slovenly table were gone. A maid, seated in a corner, sniggered.

The two children separated. Used, outside the kitchen quarters, to dodging blows, they slipped round the table with supple quickness and joined each other by the door which led to the scullery.

The boy held out the cake he had taken.

"We'll put them back if you'll give us our supper here."

"That you won't! 'Ow'd touch them, after they've been in your dirty 'ands?"

"All right!" Mark flung the cake [illegible]

"That's what I think of your silly old cakes!" the boy said.

[illegible]

"I was told I was to come here for my supper [illegible]

"That's right [illegible]

"Does this [illegible]

"Dore, the late Mr. David Daggons," Mrs. Fawn [illegible] Her glance had [illegible]

"They know how to swear, don't they?" Whats and the trouble?"

"They're frightened to meet the new master, that's what. They want to 'ave supper in ere. But I won't 'ave them lying and thieving and swearing. An' you tell you what they're like."

UNWANTED CHILDREN

"Do you generally have your supper in the kitchen, Miss?" Edwards addressed the small girl [illegible]

"No . . . sometimes."

Mrs. Fawn [illegible] of meals and all the rules.

"Their mother's not down to 'alf the meals, and they don't want to meet their cousin, alone. Well—what I say is, 'e can't be no worse to them than what their father was . . . I've 'eard them scream from 'ere sometimes."

The children shuffled their feet, looked down. Both had whitened a little.

"Didn't their mother do nothing?" the groom asked.

"Not she!" the cook replied. She advanced down the kitchen and addressed the children.

"You get on out. The kitchen's not your place. If you want anything to eat—the food's goin' into the dining room now."

BRADSHAW

Early War Now Seen Improbable

By HUGH E. BRADSHAW
Financial Editor

A Boston advisory service today undertakes to answer the question uppermost in the minds of business and finance . . . It is: "What effect has the unfavorable foreign situation had on the spring business outlook?"

The answer given by the United Business Service is far from dis- couraging. We took it heart- ening. I recently since the crisis presented new coupled with the renewed sound of the exag- gerated hopes promoted by the Administration's appointment pe- riod. Also, people felt that the early outbreak of war would improve the economic condi- tions existing on the outside business world.

RECOVERY STIMULANTS . . . Which held the hopes of a spring upturn are . . . building, automotive and allied industries. The gains [illegible] in the [illegible] and [illegible] Also [illegible] ar- chitectural and engineering activities in [illegible] commercial and industrial [illegible] Later [illegible] steel factories are more likely to be stimulated than curtailed as a result of [illegible] conditions.

FEDERATED DEPARTMENT STORES reported to stockholders today [illegible] operations and results for the [illegible] Federated [illegible] net profit [illegible] the year after the usual charges for the retirement of preferred stock. Which leaves a [illegible] after preferred dividends of $4.45 per share on the [illegible] stock. [illegible] Federated [illegible] the report by the [illegible] concern which [illegible] such important Boston outlets as William Filene's Sons . . . And [illegible] subsidiaries, the [illegible] Clothing Company and the R. H. White Company.

Interesting features of the Fed- eral report were: The repur- chase during the year of 4400 shares of preferred stock . . . Leaving 117,- 600 outstanding. A net profit consolidated net profit of the com- pany despite a dip of 14¢ per cent in sales . . . A gain in the per share earnings on the common stock of [illegible] cents a share . . . Strength of [illegible] in [illegible] goods during the early months of the fis- cal year . . .

BOSTON LED most of the Amer- ican Airlines routes in passenger traffic gains in the early part of March. According to the state- ment of Charles A. Lindbergh, president in charge of [illegible] the business of the system soared by [illegible] in the Boston-New York [illegible] and by [illegible] per cent. And the Boston-Cleveland [illegible] showed a good jump of [illegible] per cent. Both figures based on [illegible] with the same period last year . . .

BAY STATE BANKS make a good showing in the first 1939 edition of the Rand McNally Bank- ers Directory just issued . . . Ten of the 257 listed are from this state . . . Eligibility was based on having total resources of $25,000,000 or more. The 10 together have $1,442,894,000. A really big bank . . . Almost one twenty-fifth of total resources of the 257 commer- cial banks listed. Which just about clinches the argument that the Bay State is still an important bankin[illegible] center . . .

RUKEYSER

Business Boom Is Seen On Coast

By MERRYLE STANLEY RUKEYSER
International News Service Economic Commentator

LOS ANGELES, April 3 In spite of the recent stalemate in business trend, local sentiment remains hopeful.

Summarizing business opinion [illegible] one of the senior officials of a principal bank here told me:

"I believe our customers gen- erally anticipate better business for the late spring and summer.

"There is a very active de- mand for real estate loans in Southern California, which means, of course, a good deal of building. The construction industry is moving at a reason- ably high rate. Automobile sales in this district are ex- pected to improve materially over last year.

"In fact, they have been in- creasing, and the aircraft in- dustry, which is, as you know, so large here, will soon be operating at capacity. On the other hand, a discouraging trend in the very low price anticipated for the very large citrus crop.

"The tourist crop, which has now become a year round one for Southern California, with major emphasis on the summer, is expected to be more valuable by reason of the additional visitors who will come to the Golden Gate Exposition.

"Oil and motion pictures, two other notable elements in our local situation, have reasonably good prospects."

Confirming this general impres- sion, the chief executive of another bank here added:

"The significant trend is the continued influx of population. There is also the development of a trend which, in time of stress might make a bad situation worse —a situation which is not con- fined to this section —the habit of instalment buying, which seems to be increasing perceptibly."

FAVORS LIMIT ON REALTY TAX

A limit on real estate taxation is advocated by Philip Nichols, chief adviser to the state tax commission, in a discouraging analysis of the whole tax situation, just released.

He says his plan would force the state and the city to either make drastic economies or find new sources of income, or combine the two.

BRUINS, LEAFS OPEN CUP PLAY THURSDAY

Nestled nicely in the nets is the puck fired by Frank Merriwell Hill which settled the final Bruins-Rangers clash after 108 minutes of bruising play. The shot ended the series.

By BILL GRIMES

The Stanley Cup playoff series, a best four out of seven affair which will be played between Boston's Bruins and Toronto Maple Leafs, will open in Boston Thursday night under a revised scheduling it was announced today.

The second game will be played [illegible] night, the third at [illegible] April 11 and the fourth at Toronto April 13.

[illegible] are necessary, [illegible] will be played at Boston April 15 by the winner at Toronto April [illegible].

[illegible] was brought about [illegible] in Boston [illegible] night but was denied [illegible] the ballet of Art Ross who [illegible] Bruins needed more [illegible] engagements.

Frank Calder, president of the [illegible] to his request.

BEES OPEN APRIL 18

Thus if the series goes the [illegible] the keystone [illegible] for the Bees and [illegible] and open the National League season here on April 18.

The Bruins won the right to [illegible] test for hockeydom's highest award by defeating the New York Rangers in a thrilling seven game series which was not decided until this morning's wee hours in a three-period overtime thriller at the Garden.

[illegible] Leafs [illegible] Alias, but [illegible] feated New York Americans in a [illegible] two out of three series and [illegible] in a semi-final series against Detroit's Red Wings.

It was Mel Hill, the little right winger who won the first and second games with a pair of [illegible] tallies and sent the Bruins into the semi-finals by scoring a third [illegible] in the seventh minute of the third sudden death period.

From late in the second period, the Bruins and Rangers battled [illegible] deadlocked 1 to 1. They were through a hectic third session and two extra chapters before Mel Hill came up with the goal that gave the Bruinmen a 2 to 1 verdict.

The third overtime period didn't get underway until 12:24 this morning. The Rangers had started to show the effects of the heavy going during the first sudden death session. However they came back strong after a 30 minute rest while a new ice surface was made. But, they were "down" when called back for the third overtime.

SHORE STARTS PAY PLAY

Eddie Shore started the winning play in his own territory, when he [illegible] to the Irving [illegible] Roy Conacher picked up the puck [illegible] Boy started in and then, whipped the [illegible] Bill Cowley who was [illegible] the cage. Hill came [illegible]

Bruins Rise from Ruins On Hill's $50,000 Goal

THE BOSTON BRUINS SHOOK OFF THEIR cerements and rose from the tomb shortly after midnight when Mel Hill, the apple-cheeked darling of this Cup series, shoveled in a shot that was worth $50,000 to his hockey firm. It closed a gala evening for the massed trays of humanity after an hour and 48 minutes of all-out and, toward the end, all-in hockey. Up to the moment that Mel scooped the puck over the Ranger goalie's prone body it was anybody's disc-game, with Lady Luck shining her lipstick smile first to right and then to left. But in the end her lovely features puckered a kiss for the Bruins and the 16,981 clients went home to late sleeping.

AUSTEN LAKE

For volume of screech I will pin the [illegible] on the collective [illegible] or bosom, as the case may be, of the Boston throng which showered [illegible] spare change and delicates[illegible] [illegible] Ranger goalie of Louis-Schmeling [illegible] [illegible] Detroit's left field bleachers when [illegible] Mickey's blood. But the diamond suspender [illegible] gives to the fanatics who packed the Garden last night [illegible] [illegible] and searched their souls for [illegible] words.

No Holds Barred

THE FINAL TWO GOALS OF THE NIGHT [illegible] were [illegible] It [illegible] time of the last [illegible] for Ray Get[illegible] [illegible] and [illegible] the [illegible] when Murray [illegible] of the Rangers bench boss got the [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] It was strictly a [illegible] [illegible] after the [illegible] before the green. But Mr. Zero of the Bruins [illegible] [illegible] and before he could blink it out [illegible] was [illegible] in his wooden leg.

I was [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] stopped with [illegible] But then Mr. O had been busier than a [illegible] and turned some shots by sheer second sight [illegible] [illegible] with the [illegible] in his stomach to pick out the [illegible] [illegible] of Art Ross who [illegible] [illegible] Bruins needed more [illegible] engagements.

[illegible] Calder, president of the [illegible] to his request.

BEES OPEN APRIL 18

Thus if the series goes the [illegible] the keystone [illegible] for the Bees and [illegible] and open the National League season here on April 18.

The Bruins won the right to [illegible] test for hockeydom's highest award by defeating the New York Rangers in a thrilling seven game series which was not decided until this morning's wee hours in a three-period overtime thriller at the Garden.

[illegible] Leafs [illegible] Alias, but [illegible] feated New York Americans in a [illegible] two out of three series and [illegible] in a semi-final series against Detroit's Red Wings.

It was Mel Hill, the little right winger who won the first and second games with a pair of [illegible] tallies and sent the Bruins into the semi-finals by scoring a third [illegible] in the seventh minute of the third sudden death period.

From late in the second period, the Bruins and Rangers battled [illegible] deadlocked 1 to 1. They were through a hectic third session and two extra chapters before Mel Hill came up with the goal that gave the Bruinmen a 2 to 1 verdict.

The third overtime period didn't get underway until 12:24 this morning. The Rangers had started to show the effects of the heavy going during the first sudden death session. However they came back strong after a 30 minute rest while a new ice surface was made. But, they were "down" when called back for the third overtime.

SHORE STARTS PAY PLAY

Eddie Shore started the winning play in his own territory, when he [illegible] to the Irving [illegible] Roy Conacher picked up the puck [illegible] Boy started in and then, whipped the [illegible] Bill Cowley who was [illegible] the cage. Hill came [illegible]

Lady Customer Only Victim

THAT NO HEADS WERE SPLIT was a miracle. Yet, oddly, the only casualty of the evening was a lady customer, whose cheek was injured by one of those short-fused, Chinese bombs which some gallerysite of early mental age dropped to celebrate Getliffe's goal. It narrowly missed being a disgraceful tragedy, for the girl was knocked unconscious and was carried bleeding to the first aid station. But presently she was back again with a wad of medicated cotton on her wound and cheering as lustily as ever.

It was funny how the Bruins got their first goal. Getliffe, a lad with a school girl's face and a teamster's body, sauntered up on the left wing just as Shore's shot bounced off Gardiner's chest. It scored a bruise on the goalie's bosom, but it didn't get into the cash register right away. Georgie Allen, the red, raw and beefy forward of the Rangers who had been in into the Bruins all night like a kid into his Ma's cookie crock, took the rebound and started off. But his feet got mixed and he fell flat on his tummy with the puck teed up on his chin. So Getliffe gave it a golden goose with his glove and there it was.

GROVE LETS UP ON TOUR

By JOE CASHMAN

MACON, Ga., Ap[illegible] Robert Moses Grove [illegible] extra effort he will [illegible] completed pitching [illegible] the major with the Cincinnati Reds which opens here today and closes in Roanoke, Va., on Wednesday, April 12.

It's Manager Joe Cronin's intention to confine Ol' Mose's efforts largely to batting practice until the season opens.

Lefty Grove

"After Lefty's test last week," chirps Joe, "I'm hopeful he'll be a nine-inning winning pitcher for us again this season, providing he doesn't suffer a recurrence of the ailment which caused his arm to go dead last summer.

"But he must strengthen his arm before it will be fit for full time duty, and the best way he can do that in my opinion, is by batting in batting practice.

A pitcher does far more throwing in twenty minutes of batting drill than he ordinarily does in going four or five innings in an exhibition game. Also there's far less danger of him putting more strain on his wing than it can stand.

He can throw as hard or as fast as he wishes in batting [illegible] and in games situations arise when he'll risk injury in trying down to pull out of a hole.

"I can't afford to take any such chance with Grove. He's exceeded my fondest expectations by his showing to date. So you can bet [illegible] pitchers can't do.

"Mose, however, will be permitted to follow his own [illegible] He doesn't favor much. He knows better how to handle himself than any of us else. He's proved that too many times to [illegible] about it.

Joe Cronin

He's reserving decision on Cronin's suggestion that he rest [illegible] weeks.

"That has its points," he says, "but so has pitching under fire in games. I'll decide about it as I go along. It will depend on how my arm feels."

Whatever he decides you can rest assured that [illegible] will decide wisely.

Bill Carey's $50,000 Miami Beach Parties ⋮ Sports Writers Kings for a Day

MIAMI, Fla., April 3—The horse players who have been trying to beat the races are not the only ones who are entitled to sympathy. Passing attention should at least be given to the boxing promoters in this section of the country who have been carrying on against great odds and cheer at a $4000 gate.

It was the late Tex Rickard who first brought the boxing bug to Miami. Tex did so early in 1929 when he was at the height of his glory, and everybody had money. Tex signed Jack Sharkey to battle "Young" Stribling in a 10-round bout at Miami Beach, Fla.

At the time Rickard was head of the New York Garden. He had successfully promoted the Dempsey-Tunney bout at Chicago with its $2,600,000 gate two years previously, and was secretly planning to break with the Garden. He was going into a promotional partnership with Jack Dempsey which called for the staging of two heavyweight championship bouts each year, a dog track at Miami Beach, a gambling casino at Deauville and a million dollar amusement pier.

"I sent Tex a check for $101,000 as my first payment on the big investment," Dempsey later told me.

The ink was hardly dry on the Sharkey-Stribling contracts when Rickard was stricken by an attack of appendicitis and died. Dempsey stepped in and completed the Sharkey-Stribling promotion that drew $405,000.

Sharkey ended up with the decision and a guarantee of $100,000 while Stribling was paid $80,000 which was the highest purse he ever received.

There was later the Sharkey-Scott bout with its $160,000 gate, the Carnera-Maloney match in which Primo received a questionable decision over Shamus and the Carnera victory over Tommy Loughran.

High Jinx at Miami Beach With Carey in Charge

WILLIAM F. CAREY, now Sanitation Commissioner of New York City, worked with Dempsey in the promotion of the Sharkey-Stribling bout, and later directed the Sharkey-Scott bout with the aid of Frank Bruen.

Carey came into boxing from the board of directors of the Garden. He had previously been head engineer fo. Hayden & Stone. In addition he directed numerous companies of his own, and was worth $22,000,000 before the stock market crash of 1929.

Carty liked to live in lavish style, and gave a new touch of grandeur and free spending of money to the Sharkey-Stribling and Sharkey-Scott bouts. Bill leased the Dade Hotel at Miami Beach, and an old mansion on swanky Collins Avenue. He ran special trains from New York for newspaper writers and members of their families. He told me to invite anybody I wished to join him in his grand party at Miami Beach, and he insisted upon paying all railroad and hotel expenses for his guests.

There was an open bar at the Dade Hotel. There was also open house at the mansion on Collins Avenue.

When these two places were not large enough to care for all of the guests, Carey hired rooms in nearby hotels.

When the Sharkey-Stribling bout was over, Carey had an expense tab of $50,000 for his big party. He paid the bill, and looked forward to bigger affairs the following year.

There was another millionaire setup for the Sharkey-Scott bout, and Carey spent $50,000 more and laughed as he paid the check.

Champagne Flowed Like Water At Gala Miami Parties

CHAMPAGNE WAS a common drink at those Miami Beach gatherings. The sparkling water was brought to Miami Beach on private yachts from Cuba. Persons who had been in the habit of satisfying their desire for liquor with gin and water basked on the lawn in front of the Dade Hotel while waiters served pitchers of champagne.

There have since been feeble efforts to toss elaborate parties, but none of them have equalled the Carey affairs with their $50,000 setting under the warm Miami Beach moon.

Mike Jacobs of the Twentieth Century Club did himself proud in entertaining the press before the Louis-Braddock bout at Chicago. Mike went for $25,000 at his parties that lasted for an entire month before the bout.

In depression days, the Garden continued to toss parties for the sports writers, but they usually consisted of a buffet luncheon with a couple of dozen cases of Scotch and soda with a case or so of rye.

It was not until Mike Jacobs gained control of boxing that champagne was made a part of the setup again.

WHILE HE built most of the Curtis Wright airports, Carey refused to fly. The airport people wanted Bill to come to Miami for the Sharkey-Scott bout by plane.

"I only build airports, and don't fly," replied Carey.

"We'll get Col. Lindbergh as your pilot," Carey was told.

"It may be his first accident," replied Carey. "I'll go to Miami by train."

The last time I talked with Carey in New York he invited me to attend a party he staged the night of one of Louis' bouts. The affair was held at the Biltmore Hotel, and had as guests some of the leading business executives in the United States. The party had all the color and sparkle of those Miami Beach affairs. Everybody had a grand time. Including Bill Carey, who picked up a check for 10 grand.

Hubbell Sees Doctor Again

MEMPHIS, Tenn., April 3 (AP)—That shoulder "kink" doesn't bother Carl Hubbell.

"I am not alarmed about my arm, and neither is Manager Bill Terry," the New York Giants' southpaw ace said here today.

Terry ordered him to Memphis for a consultation with Dr. J. Spencer Speed after the pitcher complained of a nagging pain in his left shoulder.

Dr. Speed removed several bone chips from Hubbell's left elbow last summer, and the hurler has not experienced any trouble from that member this spring.

Hubbell said he would remain in Memphis until the Giants come here for an exhibition game Saturday.

Joe & Asbestos

By KEN KLING

Today's horse goes at Bowie. The code is Roses 1-20-6. Asbestos bets $2.00 to win and $2.00 for show. The bankroll is now $18.00.

Ken Kling's Late Special goes today in the first race at Bowie, which appends:

Mel Hill was the man of the hour in the Rangers series . . . By winning three games, including last night's deciding tilt, with overtime goals Mel broke the first round play off jinx which has been riding on the shoulders of the Bruins for nine years . . . Incidentally, Mel is now squared with Lester Patrick, who passed him up four years ago.

Lester went to the Bruins' room after the game and personally congratulated Hill for his great goal . . . Mel took a worse beating from his teammates than he received in the entire seven games with Rangers . . . He was pummelled unmercifully as he raced for the exit gate . . .

Four World Marks Shattered as Pin Tourney Nears End

By WALTER KILEY

Second and final week of the Boston American-Daily Record candlepin championships starts today, winding up with the smashing climax next Saturday night.

The second half of the field has a mighty array of marks at which to shoot, the first week's competition having been by far stiffer and productive of high scoring than ever before in the four-year history of this annual classic.

So exceptional were the various bowling pace-setters that it is more than probable that several of the marks now on the 1939 books will stand up through the finish.

Four new world records resulted during the first eight days. They are.

Men's Teams — Central Alleys Team No. 1 of Cambridge 1677
Women's Singles — Mary Frembs, Lawrence 326
Schoolboys' singles — Paul Boucher, Manchester West (N. H.) High 333
Schoolgirls' singles—Dorothy Yando, Fitchburg High 293

Each of these were worthy accomplishments, all gained under championship rules and with scores and foul line judges in attendance. All will be accepted by the New England Bowling Association, president of which is Jack Stafford, owner of the host Huntington Club alleys. Joe Hynes and Joe Grant are treasurer and secretary, respectively.

WEBBER OUTSTANDING

But none of these grand marks is worthy of more respect than the marvelous achievement of Donald Webber, Kittery, Maine, postman, who beat Saturday night's curfew hour at midnight with successive strings of 118—161—114 for a grand total of 393 and one of the finest achievements in tourney annals.

Webber left the men's amateur singles field behind by 42 pins and put it dead up to contestants this week to match his brilliancy — if they can.

Other fine highs were registered in the men's open field, the division in which recognized top-notchers compete. But inasmuch as the majority of the open bowlers chose to enter the second week of competition, the scores in this class have as yet to compare favorably with their so-called amateur brethren.

While every day finds heavy fields, the piece-de-resistance is retained for Saturday at 6 o'clock when both the men's and women's open singles fields will tee off, with every outstanding professional or Class A bowler in the lists.

It is expected that some 100 stars will enter the men's field, with the first 10 strings to be bowled this coming Saturday night, the final championship 10 strings to be rolled a week later, the evening of Saturday, April 15th, when the amateur tourney prizes will be awarded.

Fan Boosts Sox, Quinn in Friendly Note

Some of those letters from Bees and Red Sox boosters are so hot we understand that the postmaster is considering laying down a rule that they "gotta" be on asbestos paper in the future.

Yes sir, New England sure has a lot of loyal rooters, and if you're one of them send a letter to Jack Conway, Boston American sports editor, and tell him just why you favor the American League team over the Nationals, or vice versa.

Jack Conway is going to give three pairs of daily tickets to a major league game for the best letters. Write yours today, there's still time. And here's a tip, write on one side of the paper.

Today's letter comes from James Glennon of Dedham who writes:

"If you happen to be placing bets on the outcome of the Red Sox and Bees this season, may I suggest that you first get in touch with Joe Clancy of Dorchester. He shou'd be able to inform you where each team will perch at the close of the season. Joe climbed a shaky limb when he gave us a 'real tip' that Joe Cronin and Jimmie Foxx are slipping. One needn't expand his chest muscles, in making such a statement, and clarify himself as a prognosticator. The law of averages usually punctures the inflating actions of a player soon after he has reached his thirtieth milestone. It goes without saying, that a ballplayer or, any other type of athlete, cannot go on forever.

"I st'l insist that Foxx and Cronin can slip the length of the Queen Mary and yet be on a better than equal basis over those who play the identical positions for the Bees. Why they called our Boston team the Bees, is in clear as printers' ink. They possess as much sting as a disconnected electric cord.

"Bob Quinn deserves a much better turn than he is getting. Yes, Bob has done more for the youngsters of the game than any other person. Some day the luck will change and bring with it a first class team. At present, however, the Sox possess that break and are the class of the league."

Mellody Sees Upset Victory Over Ambers

Honey Mellody is more than a little delighted that Matchmaker Rip Valenti of the Goodwin A. C. has signed him to fight Lou Ambers, former lightweight champion of the world, in the 10-round feature bout at the Boston Garden Friday night, April 14.

"I regard Ambers as one of the finest fighters in the world," said Mellody. "I've read all his clippings and know that he is about as good as there is in the ring today.

"But I'm not going to be beaten before I find out just what Ambers can do. I've got an outside chance of victory in this one and you can tell the world I'm going to shoot the works."

Mellody, at his Charlestown home, seemed highly confident.

He plans to swing into heavy training work tomorrow at a local gym. Mellody, fighting frequently, finds himself in great condition now and should be at his peak a week from Friday night when he gets the wave from the referee sending him into action against the Herkimer Hurricane.

Mellody saw Lou Ambers fight Paul Junior here and saw Junior extend the ex-lightweight champion for six rounds before he wilted under a wild Ambers attack in the last four frames.

"I think I can do better than Paul Junior against Ambers," said Mellody, who holds the N. E. lightweight championship.

"I know Ambers' style. I fought him back in 1933 and gave him eight rounds of trouble. Ambers got the decision but I can say without talking out of turn that the verdict could have gone either way. In fact the decision in that fight was hooted by fans, most of them rooting all the way for Ambers to win."

WELL "DIONNE" WAS GALLERY ACCLAIM when this pretty quintette, forged to a commanding lead in the women's amateur team play in the Boston American-Daily Record-Sunday Advertiser Candlepin championships. The pretty quins, who call themselves "The Shelburne Falls Five," captured the lead from the Sanborn's Specials of Waltham who tallied a not so dusty 1384 team total. The "Five" include Ruth McNeil, Edna Morrissey, Kathryn Amstein, Helen C. Wissman and Caroline Wissman.
